MISSION AND IMPACT

As the collective voice for academic nursing, the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) serves as the catalyst for excellence and innovation in nursing education, research, and practice. AACN establishes quality standards for nursing education, influences the nursing profession to improve health care, and promotes public support of baccalaureate and graduate nursing education.

AACN is committed to working with the education and healthcare community at the national level to create a highly educated nursing workforce able to meet the challenges of contemporary practice. We strongly believe that encouraging all nurses to advance their education is in the best interest of patients and an important step toward enhancing patient safety.

On behalf of our robust membership, AACN is committed to:

- ▶ being the driving force behind innovation and excellence in academic nursing.
- ▶ advocating for effective health policy and federal support for baccalaureate and graduate nursing education.
- ▶ building strategic partnerships with leaders in health care and higher education.
- ▶ facilitating initiatives that promote diversity, equity, and inclusion; wellness; scholarship; and leadership development.
- ▶ connecting members to a multitude of resources and funding opportunities that will help nursing schools succeed today and in the future.

WHO WE SERVE

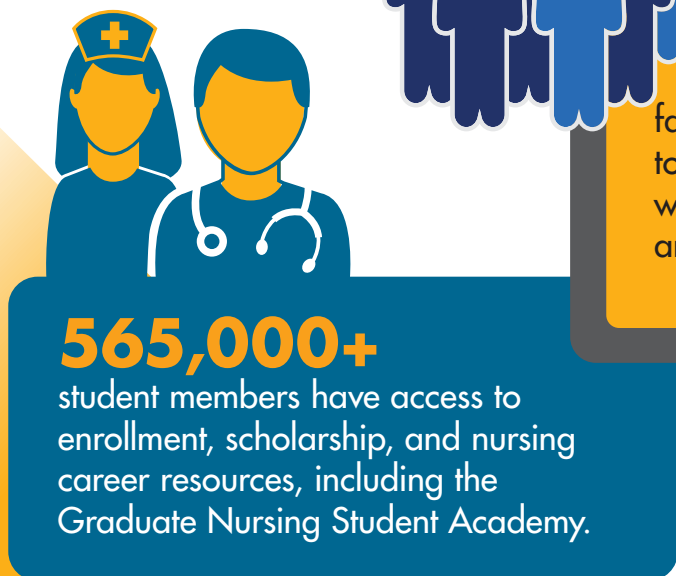

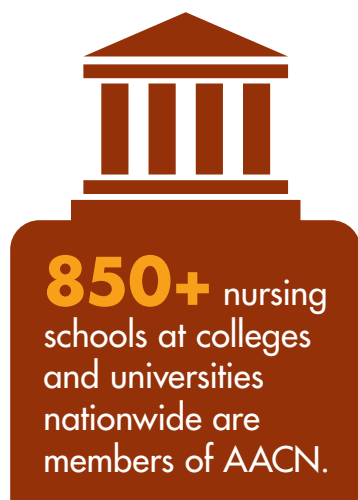

Membership in AACN is institutional and includes as members all those in the nursing academic unit, including the dean, faculty members, administrative staff (such as business officers, development/advancement and admissions staff), and students.

BY THE NUMBERS

Once an AACN member, always an AACN member. Here's why nearly 100% of our members renew and remain part of AACN every year:
